6.4 Frequently Asked Questions — Accommodation Policy

Q: Can a parent request accommodations without a formal diagnosis?

A: The school can provide informal classroom support based on teacher observation alone. However, formal accommodations (especially for examinations) require a psycho-educational assessment report from an RCI-licensed professional.

Q: How are accommodations communicated to subject teachers?

A: The LSE team issues a Student Support Summary (SSS) at the start of each term to all relevant subject teachers and shares it via the school's internal portal. The SSS lists all accommodations and is explained in a brief staff meeting.

Q: Does receiving accommodations affect a student's marks or final result?

A: No. Accommodations adjust how a student demonstrates knowledge, not what is assessed. The same syllabus content and learning outcomes apply. Marks and grades are awarded on the same scale as all students.

Q: What if a student refuses accommodations?

A: Student agency is respected, especially at secondary level. The counsellor works with the student to understand concerns. An alternative support plan may be agreed upon. Parental guidance is sought for students below Grade VII.

Q: Are accommodations available for co-curricular activities and sports?

A: Yes. The inclusive education principle extends beyond academics. The PE department, arts, and activity coordinators are briefed and work with the LSE team to ensure full participation for students with disabilities.

Q: How does the school handle accommodation requests during CBSE Board exams?

A: The school submits applications to the CBSE Regional Office by the prescribed deadline (usually October for Grade X/XII). Required documents include the assessment report, school's recommendation letter, and the student's medical certificate as specified in CBSE circular Acad-51/2021.

10.1 Behaviour(s) of Concern

Behaviour	Frequency	Duration	Intensity	Setting
Calling out without raising hand	8–12 times per 40-min class	Momentary	Low – disruptive to lesson flow	All academic classes; worst in Maths & Science
Leaving seat without permission	3–5 times per class	1–8 minutes	Moderate – disrupts own and peers' focus	Extended written tasks; final 15 min of class
Verbal conflict with peers during group work	2–3 times per week	5–15 minutes	Moderate to High – occasional raised voices	Group activities, lunch queue, playground transitions
Task non-completion (written work)	4 out of 5 written tasks incomplete	N/A	Significant academic impact	All subjects; homework particularly affected

10.2 Functional Behaviour Assessment Summary

An ABC (Antecedent–Behaviour–Consequence) analysis conducted over two weeks indicates that calling out and seat-leaving behaviours are primarily maintained by sensory stimulation seeking and escape from demanding sustained-attention tasks. Verbal conflicts are often triggered by perceived unfairness in group task allocation and difficulty with perspective-taking. Rohan demonstrates strong problem-solving skills and leadership potential in structured activities.

10.3 Intervention Strategies

Strategy	Who Implements	When	Expected Outcome
Preferential seating – front row, aisle seat near teacher; minimal visual distractions.	Class Teachers	All classes, immediately	Reduce off-task wandering; improve task monitoring.
Visual schedule / task countdown timer on desk (Time Timer watch).	Class Teachers + Parents (home)	All written tasks	Improve task initiation and pacing.
Scheduled movement break every 20 minutes during extended tasks (errand to office, stretch card).	Class Teachers	Double periods; 80-min blocks	Reduce escape-motivated seat-leaving.
Private non-verbal cue system: teacher taps desk once = reminder to raise hand.	All Subject Teachers	Throughout day	Reduce calling-out without public correction.
Chunked homework assignments: no single task >15 min; checklist provided to parents.	LSE + Class Teacher	Daily	Improve homework completion; reduce home conflict.
Check-in / Check-out (CICO) system: brief 5-min morning meeting with Mr. Desai; end-of-day reflection.	School Counsellor	Daily	Build self-monitoring; early identification of difficult days.
Social skills group – fortnightly: perspective-taking, conflict resolution, emotion regulation.	School Counsellor	Alternate Fridays, 12:00–12:40	Reduce peer conflicts; improve group work participation.
Positive behaviour reinforcement: daily behaviour chart with 4 targets; earn activity privilege at week's end.	Class Teacher + Parents	Daily (school and home)	Increase on-task behaviour; build intrinsic motivation.

10.4 Crisis Response Protocol (if behaviour escalates)

- Step 1 – Teacher uses de-escalation language: calm tone, short sentences, choices offered ('Would you like to step outside for 2 minutes or take a water break?').
- Step 2 – If escalation continues, teacher sends the class buddy to fetch the counsellor (Mr. Rohan Desai). Student is not left alone.

- Step 3 – Counsellor escorts student to the Calm Corner in the LSE room. No discussion of incident until student is regulated (typically 10–15 minutes).
- Step 4 – Incident documented in BIP log within 24 hours. Parent notified by end of school day.
- Step 5 – BIP team reviews incident at next fortnightly check-in; plan adjusted if needed.

12. CHATBOT TRAINING DATA — FAQs FOR PARENTS, STUDENTS & STAFF

12.1 Parent FAQs — General SEN & Inclusion

Q: My child's teacher says she might have dyslexia. What happens next at ABC Powai?

A: The teacher will submit a Referral Form to our LSE department within 2 weeks. Our special educator will observe your child in class and arrange a parent meeting. With your written consent, our school psychologist will conduct a psycho-educational assessment. Results are shared with you, and if a learning difference is confirmed, an IEP is developed collaboratively with you within 2 weeks of the assessment. All steps are explained at each stage and your questions are always welcome.

Q: Is there any extra cost for learning support services at ABC Powai?

A: All in-school support services — special educator sessions, counselling, classroom accommodations, and IEP planning — are included within your regular tuition. There is no separate charge. If the school recommends an external specialist (e.g., speech therapist, occupational therapist), those services are arranged by parents independently and costs are borne by the family, though we can provide referrals to trusted professionals near Powai.

Q: How do I know if my child qualifies for extra time in CBSE Board exams?

A: Students must have a current psycho-educational report (not more than 3 years old) confirming a Specific Learning Disability or other qualifying condition. The school's LSE team will guide you through the CBSE application process. The deadline is typically in October for Grade X and XII students. Please contact Ms. Priya Kulkarni at lse@ABC-powai.edu.in by September of the relevant academic year to begin the process early.

Q: Can my child's SEN information be kept strictly confidential from other students?

A: Absolutely. Your child's SEN records, assessments, IEP, and any diagnoses are kept strictly confidential. Subject teachers are informed only of the specific accommodations required (e.g., 'Rohan needs extended time') without disclosure of the underlying diagnosis unless you explicitly consent. No information is shared with other parents or students.

Q: What is the difference between an IEP and a 504 Plan? Does ABC use both?

A: An IEP (Individualised Education Plan) is used for students with significant learning differences who need specialised instruction or modifications to curriculum, goals, and assessments. A Support Plan (similar concept to a 504) covers students who need accommodations in the standard classroom without changes to the curriculum itself. At ABC Powai, we use IEPs for students requiring intensive support and Student Support Summaries (SSS) for those needing accommodations only. Both are developed with parent involvement.

Q: My child was recently diagnosed outside of school. How do I notify the school?

A: Please email or call the LSE department (lse@ABC-powai.edu.in | +91-22-6789-4501) and request an appointment with Ms. Priya Kulkarni. Please bring a copy of the diagnostic report to the meeting. We will review the findings and work with you to establish appropriate support within the school immediately.

Q: Does the school provide support during online/hybrid learning as well?

A: Yes. All IEP accommodations are extended to online and hybrid settings. This includes accessible digital materials, modified online assessment timelines, and virtual counselling sessions. The LSE team remains available via email and video calls during any remote learning periods.

Q: My child with autism is transitioning from Grade 5 to Grade 6. What support is provided?

A: Transitions are carefully managed. In the final term of Grade 5, the LSE team conducts a 'transition meeting' with the incoming Grade 6 team. A visual transition booklet is created (pictures of new classrooms, timetable, teachers). The student is taken for 1–2 familiarisation visits to the new campus area before the year begins. A peer buddy is assigned, and the new homeroom teacher is briefed on all support strategies.

Q: How often is my child's IEP reviewed?

A: IEPs are reviewed at three points: a 6-week checkpoint (brief progress check, adjustments made if needed), a formal term-end review with parents (once per term), and an annual comprehensive review. You will be invited to all formal review meetings. You may also request an urgent review at any time by contacting the LSE office.

Q: Can my child participate in sports, arts, and school trips if they have an SEN?

A: Absolutely — and we encourage it strongly! The LSE team works with PE teachers, arts coordinators, and trip organisers to ensure full participation with appropriate support. For outstation trips, the LSE team provides the accompanying teacher with a brief support note. Inclusion in all school activities is a core principle of our policy.

12.2 Student FAQs — Understanding Your Support

Q: Why do I get extra time in tests? Is that fair to other students?

A: Extra time is an accommodation, not an advantage. It helps level the playing field for students whose disability makes tasks take longer — just like a wheelchair ramp helps a student in a wheelchair access a building that stairs-only access would deny them. Other students are not disadvantaged; you are simply given fair access.

Q: I have dyslexia. Does that mean I'm not smart?

A: Not at all! Dyslexia is a difference in how the brain processes written language — it has nothing to do with intelligence. Many highly successful people including scientists, artists, entrepreneurs and leaders have dyslexia. Your verbal skills, creativity, and problem-solving are often real strengths. Your special educator and teachers are here to help you find ways to show how smart you are.

Q: Who knows about my IEP at school?

A: Your LSE educator, school counsellor, and your subject teachers know that you have an IEP and what accommodations you need. Your diagnosis is private. Other students are not told anything about your IEP — it is your confidential information and your parents have given consent for only specific staff to know.

Q: What if I don't want to use my accommodations (like the scribe or extra time)?

A: That's your choice and we respect it. However, we'd encourage you to try using accommodations at least once before deciding. Many students feel self-conscious at first, but find accommodations genuinely helpful. You can speak with Ms. Sharma (counsellor) if you'd like to talk about how you feel about it.

Q: Can I speak to the counsellor without my parents finding out?

A: Counsellor sessions are confidential. What you share in sessions stays between you and the counsellor unless there is a safety concern (risk of harm to yourself or others), in which case the counsellor is required to involve parents and the school leadership to keep everyone safe. You can ask the counsellor any questions about confidentiality before sharing anything.
